

Julian Assange

Julian Assange is a journalist of those who still have a spine, and do Journalism, instead of just writing strange articles of no meaning to jewish press releases. He was tortured, abused, and mentally destroyed in jail, and he is in jail, why? Because he actually did practice journalism and stood by his oaths.

Julian Assange for those that do not know, is the co -owner of Wikileaks website and the general infrastructure. Wikileaks has been used by Journalists and other whistleblowers worldwide to expose great shams such as Hillary's illegal e-mails, and other stuff like the extent of the surveillance of the United States Deep State on its citizens, or abuses by the Russian Government, and many other things. One can find these online.

Basically, he, "as a person", did nothing wrong. This is just the usual logic of just arresting whomever you can for something they never did, so that others who think of shoving their noses in the wrong places, will see this and stop this.

Needless to say, this is some real groundbreaking stuff going on or having went in for Wikileaks. This wasn't owned by the guy Assange or others who held up this website directly. Another thing that the WikiLeaks had unmasked is the known Panama Papers, mass surveillance files, Russian Spy files, which exposed assets and all sorts of other things from a huge number of billionaires on this world, and the list goes.

Assange was, in a parody of a trial and a parody of situations, detained and locked in isolation for the above, even though he had no direct connection to any of this, or his connection was just superficial with the exposure of this all. Were it not for Assange, Hillary and others wouldn't have been exposed for being irresponsible or frauds.

For those who do not quite get the political background here, Journalism and even whistle-blowing are important things when there are mass corruptions. Journalists on this world have a purpose to serve, and it's not to write shitty articles on Wired and other useless leftist websites about blue hair, but to protect the freedoms of nations and the rights of people of this world, and to report the truth about anything, while gambling one's chances with both the law and vicious powers at work.

Journalism should be a respectable profession, and not the trash it is. BY the enemy controlling Journalism, the ability to fact check or cross check things in our civilization, and to control the exposure or knowledge of the public of events, has been destroyed. Now most journalists are merely shilling and nothing else, which is typical in dictatorships. It's really insane that in order to listen a good or at least non biased and objective article about an event, one most of the times gets journalism from other nations.

This is how low we have sunk. One has to open up RT to look about migrant news in US or Europe [The "Russian Backed News"] or other events that are never reported in our continents. This is how low we have sunk as a democracy and how low the pillar of Journalism has sunk. And this is why the enemy is at war with people's free will and their ability to control what they consume online, over the pretext that it's all fake news.

The argument against Assange is what they do is against the law, and the general lines that those in power always say about those who are unable to write or take part in the law. While Assange or anyone else whistle blowing, other "very legal" people somewhere else are trampling over any freedom, staging conspiracies, and doing all sorts of socially destructive things that stomp people like ants.

The thing they don't tell people is that these Journalists or other people doing their work falls not upon solely regular law, but the law of the constitution as well. So, the fake ass argument that these people do "Illegal stuff" is just bullshit. This is why Assange is not given a proper and fair trial and was trapped over like an animal in a cage. Because things like this do promote Constitutional Values and Western Values of freedom, even if they come against regular laws.

The fact that Hillary was exposed may be falling under the part of hacking, but on the higher constitutional end it was the exposure of a bad and dangerous official for the American people. This is only one example.

In a theoretical scenario, is it illegal for those who knew her health was totally failing and so was her sanity, to whistle blow, so that the United States and the world could save themselves from being ruled over by said woman, or would it be more "Moral and legal" for them to shut up and never leak it, and potentially derail our planet into WW3 or something? And these are questions that can be answered in an actual court with actual judges and not staged courts with staged arrests and all the related crap.

The witch apparently retaliated as it appears, as her loss was largely credited to this exposure that went through this website. Assange appears to have been caught into a political game of revenge here.

How Assange is being treated should only stand as a message to all people who are freedom conscious, there are many in this world who abhor any human freedom and are willing to go all the way to regress society into the Middle Ages.

While one may not have to stand by Assange's actions, this is something we have to ask ourselves: Where the fuck is our world going, when exposing a great conspiracy or a few, is larger of a crime than the conspiracy itself?

Is knowing about the murder and destruction of our world bigger of a crime than actually committing it?

We can observe the above in all of those who also know of the Jewish Conspiracy - the one "Conspiracy" with endless and obvious proof, that is worse to talk about, than to actually be part of it.

You're more evil and anti-Semitic evil if you ask on why the jewish people celebrate genocide of Gentile people on Purim, than actually taking part in Purim, or actually doing the same crime as jews do to Palestine.

This is the clown world we are living in at this point.
